Indian money and in Indian weights and measures in common use in the United Provinces British and Metric systems of measuring length area volumes capacity and weight Factors Prime numbers GCM or HCF by factors LCM Vulgar fractions Vulgar fractions of concrete quantities Practical Decimal fractions (excluding the theory of recurring decimals) Decimal fractions of concrete quantities Square root Ratio Simple and compound proportion Proportional parts Average Decimal approximations (including approximate value of recurring decimals) Contracted methods in the four rules in decimals Percentages Profit and loss Simple and compound interest Present worth and true discount Problems (the use of algebraical equations is allowed in solving problems)

2 Algebra—The four simple rules Fractions Greatest common measure Least common multiple Factors Proportions Simple equations of one or more unknown quantities with easy problems Square root Quadratic equations of one unknown quantity with easy problems Graphs of statistics Graphs of straight lines Graphical solution of linear simultaneous equations Simple graphical problems

N.B.—Candidates will be provided with squared paper if necessary

3 Geometry—The course includes both practical and theoretical Geometry and every candidate will be expected to answer questions in both branches of the subject The questions on Practical Geometry will be set on the constructions contained in the annexed schedule A together with easy extensions of them All figures should be drawn accurately for which purpose every candidate should provide himself with a graduated scale, a pair of set squares, a protractor a compass and a hard pencil The questions on theoretical Geometry will consist of theorems contained in the annexed schedule B, together with easy extensions and deductions with numerical illustrations Any proof of a proposition will be accepted which appears to the examiners to form part of a systematic treatment of the subject; the order in which the theorems are stated in schedule B is not imposed as the sequence of their treatment. In the proof of the theorems hypothetical constructions will be permitted.

N.B.—Candidates will be provided with squared paper, if necessary.

SCHEDULE A.

Bisection of angles and of straight lines.

Construction of perpendiculars to straight lines.

Construction of an angle equal to a given angle.

Construction of parallels to a given straight line.

Simple cases of the construction from sufficient data of triangles and quadrilaterals.

Division of straight lines into a given number of equal parts.

Construction of a triangle equal in area to a given polygon.

Construction of tangents to a circle and of common tangents to two circles.

Simple cases of the construction of circles from sufficient data.

Construction of rectangle equal to a given polygon.

Construction of a rectangle on a given base equal in area to given rectangle.

Construction of a square equal to a given rectangle.

Construction of a rectangle of given area the sum or difference of whose sides is given. (These constructions should be based on the propositions on the Geometry of the circle.)

Construction of a fourth proportional to three given straight lines and a mean proportional to two given straight lines.

Construction of regular figures of 3, 4, 6 or 8 sides in or about a given circle.

SCHEDULE B

Angles at a point

If a straight line stands on another straight line the sum of the two angles so formed is equal to two right angles and the converse

If two straight lines intersect the vertically opposite angles are equal

Parallel straight lines

When a straight line cuts two other straight lines if—

- (i) a pair of alternate angles are equal or
- (ii) a pair of corresponding angles are equal or
- (iii) a pair of interior angles on the same side of the cutting line are together equal to two right angles then the two straight lines are parallel, and the converse

Straight lines which are parallel to the same straight line are parallel to one another

Triangles and rectilineal figures

The sum of the angles of a triangle is equal to two right angles if the sides of a convex polygon are produced in order the sum of the angles so formed is equal to four right angles

If two triangles have two sides of the one equal to two sides of the other each to each and also the angles contained by these sides equal the triangles are congruent

If two triangles have two angles of the one equal to two angles of the other each to each and also one side of the one equal to the corresponding side of the other the triangles are congruent

If two sides of a triangle are equal the angles opposite to these sides are equal and the converse.

If two triangles have the three sides of the one equal to the three sides of the other each to each the triangles are congruent.

The angle in a semi-circle is a right angle, the angle in a segment greater than a semi-circle is less than a right angle, and the angle in a segment less than a semi-circle is greater than a right angle.

The opposite angles of any quadrilateral inscribed in a circle are supplementary ; and the converse.

If a straight line touch a circle and from the point of contact a chord be drawn, the angles which this chord makes with the tangent are equal to the angles in the alternate segments.

If two chords of a circle intersect either inside or outside the circle, the rectangle contained by the parts of the one is equal to the rectangle contained by the parts of the other.

4. Mensuration.—Areas of rectangle, circle, triangle and (after measurement) of any rectilineal figure. Length of the circumference of a circle.

The angle in a semi-circle is a right angle, the angle in a segment greater than a semi-circle is less than a right angle, and the angle in a segment less than a semi-circle is greater than a right angle.

The opposite angles of any quadrilateral inscribed in a circle are supplementary ; and the converse.

If a straight line touch a circle and from the point of contact a chord be drawn, the angles which this chord makes with the tangent are equal to the angles in the alternate segments.

If two chords of a circle intersect either inside or outside the circle, the rectangle contained by the parts of the one is equal to the rectangle contained by the parts of the other.

Practical work

In view of the fact that many students will leave college to earn their living after the Intermediate Examination and that many government positions are now being opened to men who have passed this examination, the course should be taught in such a way as to make it of real practical use to students in after life. Teachers must be given facilities for taking students out to study small industries, markets and conditions of living in both city and country. The principles should be illustrated from these studies. The examiners are to inspect and mark the practical work of each student, as follows —

Two family budgets, one of an artisan, one of a cultivator with the student's own deductions

Two balance sheets, for one month or more of small scale industries, with suggestions for improvements in the industry (For example, spinning, weaving, pottery, carpentry, shoe making, tailoring, basket making, the gwalla, the mithai wala etc.)

Diagrams representing the above budgets and costs of production in the industries as percentages of the total.

Written work.

Teachers should insist on as much written work as possible. The following methods are suggested :—

NOTE.—Teachers should not usually dictate notes, but should require students to write out their own notes after each lecture from rough notes taken in class and from memory. These notes should be inspected and marked by the teacher.

Questions.—At the beginning of the lecture period teachers should frequently give out a single question on the work of the day before and allow the student 5 or 10 minutes to write out the answer which should be corrected and returned to the students.

Essays.—Occasional essays may be assigned.

N.B.—Practical and written work shall be given 15 per cent. each of the total marks for Economics. There shall be two papers, each of which shall be given 35 per cent. of the total marks. The first shall cover production and exchange, the second the rest of the course.

The questions on theoretical Geometry will consist of theorems contained in the annexed schedule B together with easy extensions and deductions with numerical illustrations. Any proof of a proposition will be accepted which appears to the examiners to form part of a systematic treatment of the subject the order in which the theorems are stated in schedule B is not imposed as the sequence of their treatment. In the proof of the theorems hypothetical constructions will be permitted.

B—Candidates will be provided with squared paper if necessary.

SCHEDULE A

Bisection of angles and of straight lines

Construction of perpendiculars to straight lines

Construction of an angle equal to a given angle

Construction of parallels to a given straight line

Simple cases of the construction from sufficient data of angles and quadrilaterals

Division of straight lines into a given number of equal parts

Construction of a triangle equal in area to a given polygon

Construction of tangent to a circle and of common tangents to two circles

Simple cases of the construction of circles from sufficient data

Construction of rectangle equal to a given polygon

Construction of a rectangle on a given base equal in area to a given rectangle

Construction of a square equal to a given rectangle

Construction of a rectangle of given area the sum or difference of whose sides is given (These constructions should be based on the propositions on the Geometry of the circle)

Construction of a fourth proportional to three given straight lines and a mean proportional to two given straight lines

Construction of regular figures of 3, 4, 6, or 8 sides in or about a given circle

SCHEDULE B.

Angles at a point.

If a straight line stands on another straight line, the sum of the two angles so formed is equal to two right angles; and the converse.

If two straight lines intersect, the vertically opposite angles are equal.

Parallel Straight Lines.

When a straight line cuts two other straight lines, if—

- (i) a pair of alternate angles are equal, or
- (ii) a pair of corresponding angles are equal, or
- (iii) a pair of interior angles on the same side of the cutting line are together equal to two right angles, then the two straight lines are parallel; and the converse.

Straight lines which are parallel to the same straight line are parallel to one another.

Triangles and Rectilineal Figures.

The sum of the angles of a triangle is equal to two right angles.

If the sides of a convex polygon are produced in order the sum of the angles so formed is equal to four right angles.

If two triangles have two sides of the one equal to two sides of the other, each to each, and also the angles contained by these sides equal, the triangles are congruent.

If two triangles have two angles of the one equal to two angles of the other, each to each, and also one side of the one equal to the corresponding side of the other, the triangles are congruent.

If two sides of a triangle are equal, the angles opposite to these sides are equal; and the converse.

If two triangles have the three sides of the one equal to the three sides of the other, each to each, the triangles are congruent.

If two right-angled triangles have their hypotenuses equal, and one side of the one equal to one side of the other, the triangles are congruent

If two sides of a triangle are unequal, the greater side has the greater angle opposite to it, and the converse

Of all the straight lines that can be drawn to a given straight line from a given point outside it the perpendicular is the shortest

The opposite sides and angles of a parallelogram are equal, each diagonal bisects the parallelogram and the diagonals bisect one another

If there are three or more parallel straight lines and the intercepts made by them on any straight line that cuts them are equal then the corresponding intercepts on any other straight line that cuts them are also equal

Areas

Parallelograms on the same or equal bases and of the same altitude are equal in area

Triangles on the same or equal bases and of the same altitude are equal in area

Equal triangles on the same or equal bases are of the same altitude

Illustrations and explanations of the geometrical theorems corresponding to the following Algebraical identities —

$$k(a + b + c + \dots) = ka + kb + kc + \dots$$

$$(a + b)^2 = a^2 + 2ab + b^2$$

$$(a - b)^2 = a^2 - 2ab + b^2$$

$$a^2 - b^2 = (a + b)(a - b)$$

The square on a side of a triangle is greater than equal to or less than the sum of the squares on the other two sides according as the angle contained by these sides is obtuse, right, or acute. The difference in the case of inequality is twice the rectangle contained by one of the two sides and the projection on it of the other

Loci.

The locus of a point which is equidistant from two fixed points is the perpendicular bisector of the straight line joining the two fixed points.

The locus of a point which is equidistant from two intersecting straight lines consists of the pair of straight lines which bisect the angles between the two given lines.

The Circle.

A straight line drawn from the centre of a circle to bisect a chord which is not the diameter is at right angles to the chord; conversely the perpendicular to a chord from the centre bisects the chord.

There is one circle and one only which passes through three given points not in a straight line.

In equal circles (or in the same circle), (i) if two arcs subtend equal angles at the centres, they are equal; (ii) conversely, if two arcs are equal, they subtend equal angles at the centres.

In equal circles (or in the same circle), (i) if two chords are equal, they cut off equal arcs; (ii) conversely, if two arcs are equal, the chords of the arcs are equal.

Equal chords in a circle are equidistant from the centre; and the converse.

The tangents at any point of a circle and the radius through the point are perpendicular to one another.

If two circles touch, the point of contact lies on the straight line through the centres.

The angle which an arc of a circle subtends at the centre is double that which it subtends at any point on the remaining part of the circumference.

Angles in the same segment of a circle are equal; and if the line joining two points subtends equal angles at two other points on the same sides of it, the four points lie on a circle.

The angle in a semi-circle is a right angle, the angle in a segment greater than a semi-circle is less than a right angle and the angle in a segment less than a semi-circle is greater than a right angle

The opposite angles of any quadrilateral inscribed in a circle are supplementary, and the converse.

If a straight line touch a circle and from the point of contact a chord be drawn, the angles which this chord makes with the tangent are equal to the angles in the alternate segments

If two chords of a circle intersect either inside or outside the circle, the rectangle contained by the parts of the one is equal to the rectangle contained by the parts of the other

4 Mensuration—Areas of rectangle, circle, triangle and (after measurement) of any rectilineal figure. Length of the circumference of a circle

Practical work.

In view of the fact that many students will leave college to earn their living after the Intermediate Examination and that many government positions are now being opened to men who have passed this examination the course should be taught in such a way as to make it of real practical use to students, in after life. Teachers must be given facilities for taking students out to study small industries markets and conditions of living in both city and country. The principles should be illustrated from these studies. The examiners are to inspect and mark the practical work of each student as follows —

Two family budgets one of an artisan one of a cultivator with the student's own deductions.

Two balance sheets for one month or more of small scale industries with suggestions for improvements in the industry. (For example, farming weaving pottery carpentry shoe making tailoring basket making the gwalas the mithai wala etc.)

Diagrams representing the above budgets and costs of production in the industries as percentages of the total.

Written work

Teachers should insist on as much written work as possible. The following are what are suggested —

NOTE — Teachers should not usually dictate notes but should require students to write out their own notes after each lecture from rough notes taken in class and from memory. These notes should be inspected and marked by the teacher.

15. Every motion shall be affirmative in form and shall begin with the word "that."

16. Every motion must be seconded, otherwise it shall drop. The seconder of a motion may reserve his speech with the permission of the Chairman.

Such further amendments shall be disposed of in the same manner as the original amendment. When all the amendments have been thus dealt with, the Chairman shall take the vote of the meeting on the motion as amended as the substantive resolution.

37. At any time after a motion or amendment has been made a member may request the Chairman to put the question and if it appears to the Chairman that the motion has been sufficiently discussed, he may close the discussion by calling upon the mover for his reply, and may then put the question to the vote.

38. No member shall speak for more than fifteen minutes when proposing a motion or amendment or for more than ten minutes when seconding or speaking to a motion or amendment, or when replying.

39 The Chairman may, at any stage in the proceedings, at his own discretion or at the request of a member, explain the scope and effect of the motion or amendment which is before the meeting. He may also at the conclusion of a debate, sum up the debate if he so desires.

40 Any member may, with the permission of the Chairman, rise even while another is speaking, to explain any expression used by himself which may have been misunderstood by the speaker, but he shall confine himself strictly to such explanation.

41 Any member may call the Chairman's attention to a point of order even while another member is addressing the meeting, but no speech shall be made on each point of order.

42 The Chairman shall be the sole judge on any point of order, and may call any member to order and may, if necessary, dissolve the meeting and adjourn it to some hour on the same or the following day.
